

- Bond finishes Silva with a knife

Often in movies, association with technology means the enemy has less feelings. What kinds of emotions does Silva show? What Motivates him?

- Anger
- Revenge is what drives him
- Surprise when he gets stabbed with a knife

Why is Silva so mad at M? What has M done to him?

- He feels that M betrayed him
- He was in China for 5 months, and they left him, he was tortured with hydrogen cyanide

In the last scene in the church, Silva could've killed Kinkay, and he has a moment with M. Silva calls her Mother, which emphasizes the feelings of trust he had for her. When he sees that M is in a church, he says of course it had to be this way. Almost like it's destiny.

Silva has feelings for He hesitates to shoot M First thing he does is he holds M's bloody hands and says you're hurt... what have they done to you?

6 Arguing by Degrees

It's better to make a qualified argument. This involves Saying that something we're defending is true most of the time.

In high school you were taught to present a position, and list 3 reasons why. This is a categorical argument, where you don't mention any flaws.

We want to argue by degrees/ Nothing is perfect, so you acknowledge that Overall... mostly...

1. No (concession. not 100% all the time Yes)
2. Yes No
3. Yes No

Phrases:

1. First paragraph: While overall.... is the case, there are ways in which ...
While overall Edmonton is a great city, there are ways in which it could improve.
2. 2nd paragraph: Although Edmonton does have some areas for improvement, overall it's a good city because
3. 3rd paragraph

Try it out, write one paragraph: Although Silva is the villain in Sky-fall, who is associated with technology, he does have some personal qualities that make him humane. Now, say why:

1. One example is trust/betrayal - motivations make sense
2. emotions/feelings for M
3. Silva as a villain, who's got some good wualities.

While revenge is generally considered not a good trait, it does show that Silva has human emotion. Revenge is what drives Silva to do what he does, and while he shows no regard for most people, he shows affection to M, in spite of her betraying him. Silva had the opportunity to shoot M, but he didn't end up shooting her. Instead, he notices that her hand is bloody and she is hurt. He hugs her, and shows affection, and even calls her "Mother". He also acknowledges being in a church, which shows he has some respect for a higher being, unlike a cold machine with no feelings.
